Henry was the *king in Britain. His first *wife died when his three children were very young. Diana, one of these children, *was brought up in her father's *court, but the two sons of Henry were *stolen out of the court.

The *queen, his second wife, said, 'I hope Diana will be William's wife.' William was a son of her own by her first husband. The queen thought that she would kill Diana after William became her husband. She knew that, if the Henry's sons were not found, then William would be the king. But <sup>①</sup>this plan was stopped by Diana herself. She loved George. His father was one of the king's *attendants and was killed in the war. After he was born, his mother was very sad and died. Henry felt sorry for the poor boy. So he took and brought him up in his own court.

Diana and George were <sup>②</sup>(teach) by the same teachers, and they often played together. They began to love each other. One day George said to Diana, 'Will you be my wife in the future?' Diana said to him, 'Yes.' They continued to love each other.

The queen was very angry to know this. She told Henry that Diana and George loved each other. He was also very angry and said to George, 'Leave Britain.'

The queen was happy to hear his words because she thought William would be the king. But she didn't want to show <sup>③</sup>that. She said to Diana, 'I am very sad to hear George has to leave for Rome. You can meet him at your favorite place before he leaves.'

Diana met George soon and they talked to each other for a long time. Diana gave George a *ring which was once her mother's. He said to her, 'I will always wear the ring.' He gave a *bracelet to her and said, 'I hope you will always wear this bracelet. When you see it, you will always remember me. I love you.'

George arrived in Rome. He made friends with some young men there. They enjoyed <sup>④</sup>(talk) about ladies. George said, 'Ladies in Britain are so nice! Diana, my future wife, is the most beautiful in the world! Ladies in Britain are more beautiful than ladies in Rome. They will not love you.' One of them, Iachimo, was angry to hear this. Iachimo was popular among the ladies, so he said to George, 'I will go to Britain and try to get the love of Diana.' Then George said, 'If you don't get the love of Diana, give me a lot of money, but if you <sup>⑤</sup>do, I will give you this ring. It is the most important for me. Diana gave it to me and I gave a bracelet to her.'

Iachimo arrived at Britain and visited Diana. She was happy to know that he was George's friend. But when Iachimo told Diana that he loved her, she was so surprised and ran away.

Iachimo didn't want to give up. He gave money to some of Diana's attendants and said to them, 'I will be in the large box. Will you carry it into her bedroom?' The box was carried into Diana's bedroom before she came back and went to bed. When Iachimo found that she was sleeping, he got out of the box and looked at everything in her bedroom carefully. When he looked at Diana, he found that she was wearing a bracelet. He knew that George gave this bracelet to her. He took it off from her arm.

The next day Iachimo left for Rome. Then he visited George and said to him, 'I got the love of Diana. I visited her and we went to her bedroom. There was a picture on the wall. The story **Cleopatra and Anthony* was drawn on it.' George said, 'That's true, but I think you heard about it from someone.' Iachimo said, 'Then, there were three dishes on a beautiful table. <sup>⑥</sup>They had pictures of you on them.' George cried, 'That's true, but I think you heard about it too.' Then Iachimo told George everything he saw in Diana's bedroom, and he said, 'Do you know this? She gave me this bracelet. She took it from her arm.' George thought that Iachimo got the love of Diana. He gave the ring to Iachimo.

George was very angry and wrote to John, a **faithful friend* to George and one of Diana's attendants. George told John about Diana's **disloyalty* and said in his letter, 'Take her to **Milford-Haven* and kill her there.' George wrote a letter to Diana, too. It said, 'Your father told me that I should not return to Britain. If I am found there, I will be killed, but I will come to Milford-Haven to see you. I really want to see you.' She loved George the best of all and believed him. She thought that George was more important than her life. She said to John, 'I want to leave for Milford-Haven soon!' She started with John on that day.

John didn't want to kill Diana. When John and Diana arrived in Milford-Haven, John showed Diana <sup>⑦</sup>the letter from George. Diana was so surprised and sad to read it. She wanted to die. John said to her, 'George will know that he is wrong. You should return with me.’ Diana said, ‘No. I will go to Rome.’ John said to her, ‘If you want to go there, you must wear the boy’s clothes. It is dangerous for ladies to walk alone in the forest.’ He gave her new clothes. She thought that she would go to Rome and see George. She loved him so much and couldn’t forget him. Before John left Diana, he gave her a drug the queen gave him, and said, ‘It will be OK if you wear these boy’s clothes on the way. If you feel sick, take this drug.’ Then he left her and returned to the court.

Before George and Diana started for Milford-Haven, the queen visited her doctor and said to him, ‘Give me some *poison to kill a person I don’t like.’ But the doctor didn’t want to kill anyone, so he gave the queen a drug ( ⑧ ) had no poison. Then the queen gave it to John and said to him, ‘If you feel sick, take it.’ John was happy to hear this because he thought the queen was kind to him, but the queen wanted to ( ⑨ ) John. She didn’t like John because she knew that he was a friend to Diana and George.
