About a month later, Bert told Anita he must leave for a long time because he had to go on a business trip far away. He gave her some keys and told her that she could use almost every room in the house while he was away.

He picked up one key and said to her, "This small key belongs to the room at the end of the long ＊hallway and you must not open the room. If you enter the room, you will get in serious trouble."

⑤ "Is it not?" I thought I left it on the table," said Anita.

"Give it to me," Bert said in a big voice.

Finally she gave up hiding the key and gave it to him.

"Why is the blood on the key?" asked Bert.

"I'm sure I do not know," answered Anita. Her face was getting white.

"You do NOT know? Now I know well enough. You went to the room on the first floor!" Bert shouted.

⑥ "You really like the room! Then you'll take your place among the ladies." He continued.

"Oh, I am so sorry. Please help me," she asked him many times.

"No! No! Do you remember my words? You'll die soon," answered Bert.

"If I must die, please give me a little time to pray," she asked.

"I'll give you 15 minutes. Not a moment longer!" Bert said and went out of the room.

Anita called her younger sister and said, "Run up to the tower and if you see our brothers, tell me. They promised to visit me today."

Her sister soon ran up to the tower.

"Did you see them?" said Anita.

"No, not yet," her sister answered.

After a while, Bert (⑦) a big *sword and said,

"One moment longer," Anita cried.
